What would you like to eat? A lot of people answer 'pizza' to that question. The kind of food we eat depends on which part of the world we live in, but nowadays it is possible to transport food easily from one part of the world to the other. International food companies sell their produce all over the world and we can find Arabic, Chinese, French or Italian food in our supermarkets. And when we want to go out to eat, there are restaurants that make meals from lots of different countries in our cities. One of the meals that they make is pizza, the world's most popular food.

A lot of people think pizza is Italian and some people think it comes from the United States. But pizza was popular in Egypt and Greece before the people of Naples, a city in Italy, invented the word 'pizza' for everybody's favourite food about 400 years ago. Then the Spanish brought the tomato from South America and the Italians made the modern pizza. Tomatoes were very cheap and the people of Naples began to eat them with their pizza. Then some Italians went to live and work in the USA and they took the pizza with them. They opened lots of pizza restaurants, pizzerias, in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. Nowadays, there are pizzerias in every town and city.
